

PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT @ THE AUSTIN SCHOOL

Do you work with students who suffer from Anxiety or Depression? Perhaps they have a trauma history or are school refusing. Do you want to explore ways to assist these students and strategies to support them in school?

We'll come along to:

Understanding and working with mental health challenges in the secondary classroom – an educator's perspective

How to best support a student who is struggling can be challenging. A wide variety of factors (which may include anxiety, depression or a trauma history) can influence why a young person is having difficulties and because of this young people vary in their responses to different interventions.

This interactive full day workshop explores the different ways in which students with mental health challenges may present in the classroom as well as current approaches for effectively managing these situations. Practical classroom strategies, change conversations and school wide approaches, are presented. A variety of resources are also provided. Participants are encouraged to bring case studies for small group discussions.
